The Control4 philosophy is as straightforward as it is simple: Life's better when everything (and everyone) works together. In engineering terms, that means we stand behind an open platform: We take interoperability seriously so both our dealers and customers can count on their Control4 systems to communicate with and control virtually anything and everything.

Control4 partners with leading companies in many industries to provide the best user experience and solutions to our dealers and customers. Here's how:

- Control4® Certification Program: Control4 Certified Partner products integrate easily with the Control4 platform through highly functional two-way drivers that are rigorously tested in Control4 labs. Dealers can count on these products to integrate smoothly every time.
- Control4 Simple Device Discovery Protocol (SDDP): Control4 SDDP is software that is built into a manufacturer's product to make integration with a Control4 system easy and seamless. When adding such devices to a Control4® system, the controller automatically recognizes them, and when the dealer identifies the device, the correct driver is automatically added to the project and the device is installed.
- Control4 Online Store: As it makes sense, we work with partners who have been through our Certification Program and utilize SDDP, to make their products available directly to our dealers. While these products aren't the only solutions available, we believe our dealers and customers will have the best possible experience by using these products.*
